SWISS TSCHOPP KEEPS WINNING FORM

HENRY Tschopp of Switzerland scored a three-under 69 for a three-stroke lead over Japanese Yuto Katsuragawa on the penultimate round of the 17th World University Golf Championship at the Pradera

Verde Golf and Country Club in Lubao, Pampanga.

Counting his early 68 and 71, the 19-year-old Tschopp maintained an under-par game with 69 to score a 208 total after three days of battle in the 72-hole championship sanctioned by the International Sports University Federation (FISU).

The Zurich-based Tschopp birdied the par-5 No. 3 then run gutsy pars on the next three holes. His drive on par-4 No. 7 hit the bunker on the left side and got stocked on the lip.

Tschopp, an incoming Business Management student at the Western Texas College, plucked the ball to the green and stayed two inches from the pin before he holed out.

"It could be a great par but maybe I was just unlucky on that hole. Sometimes, you get bad breaks, and sometimes, you get good breaks," said Tschopp, who made three more birdies at the back nine. Katsuragawa posted a personal best of five-under 67 to jump six notches higher and shared the second spot with Korean Jaehun Choi for 211s.

Katsuragawa fired six birdies on hole Nos. 2, 3, 7, 10, 12, and 13 then scored his lone bogey on par-3 15th. Choi, meanwhile, finished with a bogey-free 68 built on 34-34 card spiked with four birdies.

"I hope I can play five or six under tomorrow," said Katsuragawa, ranked eight back home.

Tschopp will be sticking to his game plan in his bid to take home the title at the 17th edition of the tournament organized by the Federation of School Sports Association of the Philippines (FESSAP).

The Philippines' Ruperto Zaragosa fared well with a four-under 68 to share the 12th to 14th places with

“I hope I can play five or six under tomorrow,” said Katsuragawa, ranked eight back home.

Terrence Ng of Hong Kong and Kyle Raymond De Beer of South Africa for 217s.

Jonas Christian Magcalayo dropped from No. 16 to tied 21st with South African David-Louis Nortje, who both scored a 221-aggregate.

In the women's division, Dasom Ma of South Korea scored a two-under 70 for a 215 total to dislodge two-day leader Hei Nam Leung of Hong Kong. Ma's compatriot, Minji Kang, tallied 217 from her third-day score of 68 to jump from No. 4 to No. 2.

Filipino bets Annika Victoria Guangko and Denize Angela Pineda ended their campaign in the biennial meet after switching their golf balls at No. 17 which was ground for disqualification.

In the team competition, leader South Korea posted a 432-aggregate, 10-strokes ahead over second-running France in the women's category.

Japan is on top of the men's category, four-stroke ahead of South Korea, 418-422.

A total of 68 golfers from 13 countries are seeing action in the tournament supported by the Department of Tourism, Tourism Promotions Board, Pradera Verde, Arena Lux Enterprise, Federation of Filipino-Chinese Chambers of Commerce and Industry, Inc., Seascape Village, and Aurora Securities, Inc.
